Item 5. OTHER EVENTS AND REGULATION FD DISCLOSURE

On May 23, 2002, the U.S. Department of Justice served HEALTHSOUTH Corporation with a complaint in intervention in a previously disclosed civil False Claims Act case against the company pending in the U.S. District Court for the Western District of Texas, United States ex rel. James J. Devage v. HEALTHSOUTH Corporation, Civil Action No. SA-98-CA-0372-FB . The complaint alleges that the company submitted false claims for reimbursement under Medicare and other federal health care programs and federal employee health benefit plans in connection with certain physical therapy services provided at the company's outpatient rehabilitation centers. As previously announced, the Department has recently withdrawn or announced its intent to withdraw previous notices of intervention in similar cases filed by other relators under the False Claims Act. The complaint does not specify the damages claimed by the Department.

As the company has noted in previous statements, it believes that its practices are consistent with accepted clinical standards and practices in physical therapy and with existing Medicare regulations, and the company expects to defend vigorously against the claims asserted in the complaint. Because the complaint has just been filed, it is not possible at this time to predict the outcome of this matter or the length of time it will take to resolve this litigation.

There can be no assurance that such factors or other factors will not affect the accuracy of such forward-looking statements.
