ENGlobal Awarded Cogeneration Expansion Contract; Project Man-hours Expected to Exceed Three-Hundred Thousand

HOUSTON--(BUSINESS WIRE)--June 30, 2003--ENGlobal Corporation (AMEX:ENG) announced today that its subsidiary, ENGlobal Engineering Inc., has been awarded a multi-year contract to supply all refinery upgrade work on a 465 megawatt Cogeneration power project for one of its long-time clients, a major energy supplier. ENGlobal will have full responsibility for the detailed engineering, procurement and construction management for all work performed within the boundaries of the refinery located in the Gulf Coast region.

Under the new contract, ENGlobal will immediately begin the detailed engineering phase that follows the front-end loading (FEL) phase of the project, which was recently concluded under a separate contract. The Company expects project man-hours to be approximately 300 thousand through completion, representing revenues of approximately $17 million. Management of the project will be provided through ENGlobal's Beaumont engineering office and staffing levels are expected to peak at over 100 people with startup targeted for mid-2005. A large portion of the workforce will come directly from the Beaumont and surrounding area.

"We, at ENGlobal, are pleased to continue our work on this important project," stated Michael L. Burrow, P.E., chairman and CEO of ENGlobal. "Our staff takes pride in routinely executing jobs under budget and ahead of schedule. We are honored to be rewarded for these efforts and eager to deliver on our uncompromising commitment of quality and safety."
