Agrium advances Vanscoy potash expansion

December 17, 2009- ALL AMOUNTS ARE STATED IN U.S.$

CALGARY, Alberta Agrium Inc. (TSX and NYSE: AGU) announced today it has made significant progress with its planned brownfield expansion at its Vanscoy, Saskatchewan potash mine. The expansion is expected to add 750,000 tonnes of annual potash capacity to the mine, contingent upon final project approval which is expected to occur in late 2010. An Engineering, Procurement, and Construction (EPC) contract was recently executed by Agrium with a Joint Venture comprised of SNC Lavalin Inc. and PCL Industrial Management Inc. to further develop the engineering and ultimately complete the expansion.

Most of the construction work on the capacity addition is expected to be completed in 2013 and 2014. Some incremental capacity and related additional production is expected in late 2013. The majority of the capacity expansion is expected to be available in 2014, with full rates expected to be achieved in late 2014. The full 2.8 million tonnes of annual production capacity is expected to be achieved in 2015.

The brownfield expansion is an important part of our strategy to continue to grow all three of our strategic business units. The EPC contract with two leading engineering and construction firms is an important step in this process. We believe that global potash demand will start to rebound in 2010 and that brownfield expansions make economic sense given the world ultimately will need this additional production. As I have stated previously, Agrium is committed to growing across all three business units through a variety of value added opportunities. The announcement today in no way diminishes our resolve to proceed with our proposed acquisition of CF Industries Holdings, Inc. said Mike Wilson, Agrium President and CEO.
