Eindhoven, The Netherlands, April 26, 2012 NXP Semiconductors N.V. (NASDAQ: NXPI) today reported financial results for the first quarter of 2012, ended April 1, 2012, and provided guidance for the second quarter 2012.

We are pleased with our performance in the first quarter of 2012 as we delivered revenue of $978 million, which was near the upper end of our original guidance range. We believe NXP is in the early stages of a positive cyclical rebound, but more importantly we are beginning to see tangible acceleration of company specific design-wins driven by the material adoption of our technology. This has resulted in an improvement in order rates with many of our customers and across nearly all product lines. We are encouraged that our efforts over the last few years are delivering tangible results as demonstrated by a combination of our first quarter results and our outlook for the second quarter. We continue to believe the combination of our unique product portfolio, applications knowledge and customer focus should enable NXP to grow in excess of the overall semiconductor industry, said Richard Clemmer, NXP Chief Executive Officer.

Note: AUTO is the HPMS Automotive business; IDEN is the HPMS Identification business; WILI is the HPMS Wireless Infrastructure, Lighting and Industrial business; MCC is the HPMS Mobile, Consumer and Computing business; HPMS is the High Performance Mixed Signal segment; STDP is the Standard Products segment; MFG & OTHER is the combination of Manufacturing Services and Other Corporate revenue.

Product Revenue is the combination of revenue from the High Performance Mixed Signal (HPMS) and Standard Products segments. The decline in the Manufacturing Operations and Other segment is due to the expiration of contractual obligations to provide manufacturing services for previously divested businesses.

Additional Information for the First Quarter of 2012:

During the first quarter 2012, NXP completed a new $475 million Senior Secured Term Loan Facility due 2019. The new term loan has a seven year maturity, with margin of LIBOR + 400bps, a LIBOR floor of 1.25% and was priced at 98.5% of par. The covenants of the term loan substantially correspond to those contained in NXP s existing secured notes and credit facilities. Utilizing the net proceeds from the new $475 million term loan and drawing on its existing revolving credit facility, NXP redeemed $509.8 million of its U.S. dollar-denominated Senior Secured Floating Rate Notes due 2015 and 203.4 million of its Euro-denominated Senior Secured Floating Rate Notes due 2015.

The total debt balance at the end of the first quarter 2012 was $3,829 million, an increase of $30 million from the $3,799 million in the prior quarter primarily due a combination of currency fluctuations on NXPs euro-based debt and refinancing costs associated with the new 2019 term loan.

Net cash interest paid in the first quarter of 2012 was $115 million.

SSMC, NXP s consolidated joint-venture wafer fab with TSMC, reported first quarter 2012 operating income of $34 million, EBITDA of $45 million and a closing cash balance of $274 million.

Utilization in NXP wafer fabs averaged 84 percent in the first quarter 2012 compared to 97 percent in the year ago period and 71 percent in the prior quarter.

Discussion of GAAP to non-GAAP Reconciliations

NXP provides financial information on both a U.S. generally accepted accounting principles (GAAP) and non-GAAP basis. Reconciliations of these non-GAAP measures to the most comparable measures calculated in accordance with GAAP are provided in this release.

Non-GAAP information should not be considered a substitute for any information derived or calculated in accordance with GAAP. NXP provides this information as an additional insight as to how management assesses the performance and allocation of resources among its various segments and because the financial community uses it in its analysis of NXP s operating performance, historical results and projections of NXP s future operating results.

The non-GAAP measures used herein are not intended to be measures of financial performance or condition, liquidity or profitability in accordance with GAAP, and should not be considered as alternatives to net income (loss), operating income, or any other performance measures determined in accordance with GAAP.

Certain information referred to in this release, including non-GAAP gross margin, non-GAAP operating margin, EBITDA, Adjusted EBITDA and Trailing 12 month adjusted EBITDA, have not been derived in accordance with GAAP and can vary from other participants in the semiconductor industry. These measures have limitations as analytical tools and should not be considered in isolation or as substitutes for analysis of NXP s financial results as reported under GAAP. In this release the use of the terms:

Non-GAAP gross profit, non-GAAP gross margin, non-GAAP operating margin, non-GAAP operating income, non-GAAP net income and non-GAAP EPS are all non-GAAP financial measure that reflect the underlying operating and profit structure of NXP operations net of purchase price accounting (PPA), restructuring, other incidental items and the impact of other non-cash adjustments.

EBITDA, Adjusted EBITDA and Trailing 12 month adjusted EBITDA, are not intended to be a measure of free cash flow for management s discretionary use, as these metrics do not consider certain cash requirements such as interest payments, tax payments, debt service requirements and replacement of fixed assets.

PPA effects reflect the fair value adjustments impacting acquisition accounting and other acquisition adjustments charged to the income statement applied to the formation of NXP on September 29, 2006 and all subsequent acquisitions. The PPA effect on the Company s gross profit refers to additional depreciation charges on tangible fixed assets, resulting from the step-up in fair values. The amortization charges related to long-lived intangible assets are primarily reflected in general and administrative expenses.

Other incidental items consist of process and product transfer costs (which refer to the costs incurred in transferring a production process and products from one manufacturing site to another). NXP presents other incidental items in its analysis of results of operations because these costs, gains and losses, have affected the comparability of the company s results over the years.

Net debt refers to the sum total of long and short term debt less total cash and cash equivalents, as reflected on the balance sheet. Conference Call and Webcast Information

NXP will host a conference call on April 26, 2012 at 4:45 p.m. U.S. Eastern Daylight Time (10:45 p.m. Central European Time) to discuss its first quarter 2012 results and provide an outlook for the second quarter of 2012.

Interested parties may join the conference call by dialing 1-866-804-6924 (within the U.S.) or 1-857-350-1670 (outside the U.S.). The participant passcode is 52164375. (NASDAQ: NXPI) provides High Performance Mixed Signal and Standard Product solutions that leverage its leading RF, Analog, Power Management, Interface, Security and Digital Processing expertise. These innovations are used in a wide range of automotive, identification, wireless infrastructure, lighting, industrial, mobile, consumer and computing applications. A global semiconductor company with operations in more than 25 countries, NXP posted revenue of $4.2 billion in 2011. Additional information can be found by visiting www.nxp.com.

Forward-looking Statements

This document includes forward-looking statements which include statements regarding NXP s business strategy, financial condition, results of operations, and market data, as well as any other statements which are not historical facts. By their nature, forward-looking statements are subject to numerous factors, risks and uncertainties that could cause actual outcomes and results to be materially different from those projected. These factors, risks and uncertainties include the following: market demand and semiconductor industry conditions; the ability to successfully introduce new technologies and products; the end-market demand for the goods into which NPX s products are incorporated; the ability to generate sufficient cash, raise sufficient capital or refinance corporate debt at or before maturity; the ability to meet the combination of corporate debt service, research and development and capital investment requirements; the ability to accurately estimate demand and match manufacturing production capacity accordingly or obtain supplies from third-party producers; the access to production capacity from third-party outsourcing partners; any events that might affect third-party business partners or NXP s relationship with them; the ability to secure adequate and timely supply of equipment and materials from suppliers; the ability to avoid operational problems and product defects and, if such issues were to arise, to correct them quickly; the ability to form strategic partnerships and joint ventures and to successfully cooperate with alliance partners; the ability to win competitive bid selection processes to develop products for use in customers equipment and products; the ability to successfully establish a brand identity; the ability to successfully hire and retain key management and senior product architects; and, the ability to maintain good relationships with our suppliers. In addition, this document contains information concerning the semiconductor industry and NXP s business segments generally, which is forward-looking in nature and is based on a variety of assumptions regarding the ways in which the semiconductor industry, NXP s market segments and product areas may develop. NXP has based these assumptions on information currently available, if any one or more of these assumptions turn out to be incorrect, actual market results may differ from those predicted. While NXP does not know what impact any such differences may have on its business, if there are such differences, its future results of operations and its financial condition could be materially adversely affected. Readers are cautioned not to place undue reliance on these forward-looking statements, which speak to results only as of the date the statements were made. Except for any ongoing obligation to disclose material information as required by the United States federal securities laws, NXP does not have any intention or obligation to publicly update or revise any forward-looking statements after we distribute this document, whether to reflect any future events or circumstances or otherwise. For a discussion of potential risks and uncertainties, please refer to the risk factors listed in our SEC filings. Copies of our SEC filings are available on our Investor Relations website, www.nxp.com/investor or from the SEC website, www.sec.gov.
