Item 7.01 Regulation FD Disclosure.

On December 16, 2016, The New York Times Company (the Company) provided a communication to employees with respect to a planned redesign of the Company's headquarters building, a copy of which is furnished herewith as Exhibit 99.1 to this Current Report on Form 8-K.

Some of the statements included in Exhibit 99.1 to this Current Report on Form 8-K, particularly expectations regarding the redesign of the Company's headquarters building, are forward-looking statements that involve risks and uncertainties, and actual results could differ materially from those predicted. These risks and uncertainties include changes in the business and competitive environment in which the Company operates, the impact of national and local conditions and developments in technology, each of which could influence the levels (rate and volume) of the Company's circulation and advertising, the growth of its businesses and the implementation of its strategic initiatives. They also include other risks detailed from time to time in the Company's publicly filed documents, including its Annual Report on Form 10-K for the fiscal year ended December 27, 2015. Any forward-looking statements are and will be based upon the Company's then-current expectations, estimates and assumptions regarding future events and are applicable only as of the dates of such statements. The Company undertakes no obligation to publicly update or revise any forward-looking statement, whether as a result of new information, future events or otherwise.
