GLENCAIRN ENTERS INTO OPTION TO PURCHASE
NEVADA MILL FACILITY; ADVANCES LIBERTAD TO

FEASIBILITY

Glencairn Gold Corporation announced today it has entered into an option agreement with a third-party vendor to purchase a complete milling facility previously owned and operated by a senior North American gold mining company. The mill facility is located in northern Nevada and operated for many years until it was placed on care and maintenance in 2002.

Glencairn also announced it has engaged AMEC Americas Limited to complete a feasibility study on the conversion/expansion to conventional milling of its Libertad Mine in Nicaragua. The decision to proceed to feasibility followed the Company's receipt of a scoping study prepared by AMEC.

We are very pleased with the planned purchase of the mill facility, which is in excellent condition and was well-maintained. The purchase will allow Glencairn to fast track the project and significantly reduce capital costs. In opting for a refurbished mill as opposed to a new one, Glencairn will return the Libertad Mine to production in a considerably shorter timeframe than originally planned, said Glencairn President and CEO Peter Tagliamonte.

The purchase when completed will include the full mill facilities with a semi-autogenous grinding (SAG) mill, a ball mill, a vertical mill, tailings pumps, a thickener system, leach and Carbon-in-Pulp (CIP) tanks, as well as all the structural steel to house the new Libertad Mill. Glencairn plans to dismantle the mill and reassemble it on the Libertad site. The new mill will be incorporated into the existing Libertad infrastructure.

The Libertad Mine was a 5,000-tonne-per-day heap leach operation. The mine has been operating since mid-1997, except for a brief suspension in 2000-2001. It produced 8.1 million tonnes grading 1.77 grams gold per tonne containing 461,300 ounces of gold prior to Glencairn's acquisition in July 2006. Gold sales from the Libertad Mine were an estimated 12,146 ounces in the first quarter of 2007. The feasibility study will include updated estimates of the mineral resources and mineral reserves by Scott Wilson RPA, an independent geological consultant.

Glencairn suspended operations at the end of the first quarter of 2007 following metallurgical tests that showed the average 40% gold recoveries from heap leaching could be significantly increased to more than 90% with conventional milling.

Graham Speirs, P.Eng., Chief Operating Officer of Glencairn Gold, is the Qualified Person within the meaning of National Instrument 43-101. He has reviewed and approved the contents of this release.

About Glencairn Gold Corporation

Glencairn is a growing gold producer with mining and exploration activities focused in Central America. The Company operates the Bellavista Mine in Costa Rica and the Limon Mine in Nicaragua and plans to convert a third mine, the Libertad Mine in Nicaragua, to conventional milling and expand the operation. It holds a 60% interest in the Cerro Quema advanced gold project in Panama and a 100% interest in the Mestiza gold property 70 kilometres from the Limon Mine. The Company focuses on efficient and productive mining practices to establish a firm base of quality operations. Glencairn is committed to growth by optimizing current operations and expanding mineral reserves at existing mines.
