RBS Exchange Traded Notes

RBS Rogers Enhanced Precious Metals ETN (RGRP)

ETN Overview:

The RBS Rogers Enhanced Precious Metals Exchange Traded Notes ("RBS ETNs") track the RICI Enhanced(SM) Precious Metals Total Return Index (the "Index") which provides exposure to four commodities in the precious metals futures market, plus the rate of interest that could be earned on cash collateral invested in Treasury Bills. The Index, designed in cooperation with prominent stock market and commodities investor Jim Rogers and RBS, attempts to track price changes for precious metals commodities.

RICI Enhanced(SM) Precious Metals Total Return Index Features

Strategy: The RBS ETNs are designed to provide commodity exposure on the basis of expected economic global demand. By investing in futures contracts with varying maturities, the Index seeks to maximize returns when there are significant price differences between near-dated and future-dated commodity contracts. This is unlike many commodity-linked investments in the market today which invest solely in front month contracts. A special rollover calendar defines specific selection criteria for each commodity contract, including term structure.

Commodity weightings: The individual commodity weightings are determined on the basis of the expected economic global demand for each commodity.

Rebalancing: The commodity weightings are reset to their target weights on a semi-annual basis.

Rules-based: Yes. The Index applies a rollover calendar to select contracts for each commodity.

Index Committee: Jim Rogers and the Index Committee annually review and adjust, as necessary, the composition of the Index. The objective of the Index is to track the price of commodities worldwide.

Determining the rollover calendar for individual commodities

All available futures contracts

Contracts are selected according to the individual rollover calendar for each commodity. Rollover based on liquidity and futures curves.

You can not invest directly in an index. The above figures do not take fees into account.

(1)The Index is a total return version of the RICI Enhanced(SM) Precious Metals Excess Return Index, which means that the level of the Index incorporates interest that could have been earned on cash collateral invested in 3-month U.S. Treasury bills.

(2)Based on daily returns. Standard deviation is a measure of volatility, and illustrates the extent of variation (whether higher or lower) that exists from the average given set of results. A low standard deviation indicates that the results tend to be very close to the average result (a low degree of volatility). In contrast, a high standard deviation indicates that the results are spread out over a large range of outcomes (a high degree of volatility). Because the standard deviation is based on historical data, it may not predict variability in annualized performance of the RBS ETNs in the future.

CERTAIN RISK CONSIDERATIONS: The RBS ETNs involve risks not associated with an investment in convertible bonds, including the risk of a possible loss of some or all of your investment. The level of the Index must increase by an amount sufficient to offset the interest on the RBS ETNs in order for you to receive at least the principal amount of your investment back at maturity or upon early repurchase or redemption. The RBS ETNs do not provide exposure to spot prices of the relevant commodities and, consequently, may not be representative of an investment that provides exposure to the spot prices of relevant commodities or buying and holding the relevant commodities. The prices of commodities are volatile and are affected by numerous factors, including changes in supply and demand, contracts on non-U.S. exchanges and trading on such exchanges may be subject to different and greater risks than trading on U.S. exchanges. E-mini contracts on the NYSE Arca, a trading market for these commodities, may not develop and the liquidity of the RBS ETNs may be limited and/or vary over time, as RBS plans to list the RBS ETNs. The RBS ETNs are not principal protected and do not pay interest. The intraday indicative value and the daily closing value of the RBS ETNs are the same as the trading price or market price of the RBS ETNs in the secondary market. Any payment on the RBS ETNs is subject to the ability of RBS to make such payments, as the guarantor, to pay their respective obligations when they become due. You should carefully consider whether the RBS ETNs are suitable for you under the circumstances before you decide to purchase them. We urge you to consult with your investment, legal, accounting, tax and other advisors with respect to the risks involved in RBS ETNs. The RBS ETNs are not suitable for all investors. You should carefully read the relevant pricing schedule and the prospectus for the more detailed explanation of the risks involved in any investment in the RBS ETNs as described in the "Risk Factors" section of the prospectus.

RECENT DEVELOPMENTS: On June 13, 2013, we announced that we would be exiting the structured retail business and that we are responsible for issuing and maintaining the RBS ETNs, and that we expect to move such business into a runoff organization which will be a result of our restructuring and / or business sales (the "RBS Retail Investor Products Exit Plan"). The implementation of the RBS Retail Investor Products Exit Plan will result in the RBS ETNs will be redeemed by us prior to maturity. We plan to continue to maintain and issue the RBS ETNs, but our plans could change. We do not intend to hold the RBS ETNs before we redeem them at our option.
