Open on MS of Sam...push in slightly

Hello, my name is Sam Wyly, and I want to tell you about Ranger Governance and our efforts to enhance the value of CA for the Company's shareholders, for its customers and for its employees.

I'm sure I don't have to tell you that our company is under performing.

CA's Return vs. Software Industry

CA: Negative 14%

Software Industry: 169%

Include footnote: Total five-year return for period ending March 31, 2001.

Under the current management, return to investors has been negative 14% over the past five years... this is at a time when the average software company index rose 169%.

Cut to Sam

That's right... during the biggest bull market and software boom in history, the current board of Computer Associates has managed to turn each 100 of your dollars into only 86.

Unfortunately, the story doesn't end there.

Cut to NYT and Newsday articles

The trouble isn't limited to chronic financial under-performance and a sagging share price.

That is why Ranger wants to work with you to help our company reach its full potential.

Cut to headlines of announcement of Ranger's proxy fight.

On June 21, we launched a bid to replace the incumbent Board with a new and independent board that intends to do the right things for the company, for its employees, for its customers and for you, its owners.

Before I go into the reasons why we believe management must be changed now, let me tell you why we think the Ranger nominees are well qualified to lead this effort.

First, a little bit about me.

Cut to video or stills and headlines documenting Sam's Career

I've been an entrepreneur and an investor for over 30 years, and have founded several successful enterprises, including, most recently, ten years ago, Maverick Capital... a leading equity hedge fund, which has grown in 10 years from $15 million in family money to almost $8 billion.

But my lifelong passion and first real success was in the software industry.

CA just last year.

So, I have a special interest in seeing that Computer Associates prosper and grows.

I believe that by any performance measure, this company has clearly under-performed, compared to other software companies and also compared to what our management teams were able to accomplish at Sterling Software.

CA vs. SWW

Note: SWW was acquired by CA on

Just compare CA's performance to that of Sterling Software - a company whose structure and culture, I believe, created much better growth. Over the 5-year period before CA acquired Sterling, $100 dollars invested in CA grew to $295. But that same $100 invested in Sterling would have grown to $568 --proof that the entrepreneurial company with the

innovative structure and culture
had the best performance.

What do Business Week and the

about its pay policy?

Moreover, CA's "creative accounting" practices and its poor treatment of its employees have both been exposed by the New York Times.

of company stock.

In April, The New York Times wrote an in-depth investigative article that supported many of our worst suspicions about the company and its current managers.

Also, the media continues to report on the controversy surrounding CA's employee practices.

Cut to Sam

Both the New York Times and Newsday have reported on top managers' widespread practice in which employees who'd never had a bad review were fired for "cause," without severance, without health insurance.

Nominee.

Thanks Sam. We at Ranger think CA's arrogance is plainly seen in its dealings with Wall Street. Under current management, the NYT has quoted former employees saying that CA should stand for "Creative Accounting."

We believe its accounting practices have strained its credibility with the financial community, and created uncertainty among investors about the value of the company.

Using its new, untested Pro Forma Pro

Rata formula, CA reported revenues of $1.3 billion in the 4th quarter of 2000 and an operating profit of [$0.47] cents/share.

. When reported under the standard rules of General Accepted Accounting Principles however, the company's revenues were less than half that, and it lost $0.29 cents/share in the 4th quarter of 2000.

Edgar Filing: COMPUTER ASSOCIATES INTERNATIONAL INC - Form DFAN14A

Cut to Steve

Why did they do this? We believe that there was one very significant reason ... they tried to justify paying themselves egregiously -in the form of an excessive windfall of $1 billion worth of stock. Your current board approved this payment for non-performance. Sam.

Cut to Sam

Thanks, Steve. The more we looked at this Company the more we realized that it needs a sustainable strategy to become more competitive... and be more responsive to customers... and it needs it fast.

That's why Ranger Governance has stepped forward with a plan of action which we think will rebuild the company and restore integrity to operations...it will reverse five years of chronic under-performance... it will increase shareholder value.

Cut to Graphic of Nominee Ad

We think our plan builds on CA's winning products, people and customers to re-establish Computer Associates as the leading global provider of software solutions.

Here's what we're doing.

First, we've assembled a slate of independent directors -- people with proven records of performance in software companies and in other companies, who

Now back to Steve Perkins for more on our plan. Steve...

Thanks Sam.

In order to restore credibility
with the financial community, customers and employees, we will institute a series of corporate governance policies based on what we think are the best practices of the business world.

I want to assure you that I and the other Ranger candidates will observe the highest standards in discharging our fiduciary duties for the benefit--first and foremost--of you, the shareholders- the owners of CA.

Cut to Steve

We will strategically realign the company into four decentralized business units, which we think will enhance the company's ability to effectively compete, innovate, and provide standard-setting customer service.

Cut to organization chart

This new alignment is not a "break-up" of CA; Rather, it is a correction to what we believe is an excessively centralized management structure which is not sufficiently flexible to fully meet customer needs. We believe that this approach to organization structure has been key to the success of companies such as Sterling Software, Texas Instruments, GE and others.

Fade in "National Account Sales Force" under chart

We recognize that larger enterprise customers may prefer a single point of contact within CA's sales organization. We intend to establish a national account sales force with the ability to tap into the expertise and synergies of each of the four business units.

Ranger envisions that each of these business units will produce separate income statement, balance sheet and cash flow information.

The Ranger Plan
Continuous product innovation
Expanded Product Offerings
Strategic Acquisitions
Research and Development
No Increased Cost

Cut to Steve

We will also implement a program of continuous product innovation. We plan to expand CA's product offerings through strategic acquisitions and investments in research and development. We believe all this can be done without increased costs.

Overlay "New Corporate Culture" over Steve

Once the individual strengths of each of these business units is understood, we believe that investors will recognize greater value in CA from the sum of its parts.

Cut to Sam

Finally, we plan on building a new
