Holly Corporation & Frontier Oil Corporation

Weekly Communiqué Merger Update #15

Video Four

Below is the transcript of a video message delivered by Holly Corporation's President, Dave Lamp and Frontier Oil Corporation's Chairman, President and Chief Executive Officer, Mike Jennings, to both Holly and Frontier employees on June 24, 2011.

Mike Jennings:

It's got to be through sitting with people and communicating the vision and having them see the reality both through achievement and through opportunity. Um, it's going to take some time but we intend to have feet on the street, at the plants, out with the people, through forums like this, frankly. Uh trying to communicate where we want to be and why we think it's so important to get there.

Dave Lamp:

You know in essence in a merger you're, you know you have to re-recruit everyone and I'd like to see that process get done as fast as possible and we can get on and get the passion going and get, start accelerating the results of our business. Um, so that's to me is important and it really comes down to merging these business processes that we mentioned. So we've got, it's really critical to me that that happens and get common measurements and scorecards that make sense for everybody and, and uh, you know that gives them, in my mind if you can't measure it, you can't improve it. That goes back to continuous improvement. We've got to continuously improve so, or we get left behind, so. So, I think those are the real two big hits.

Dave Lamp:

He's been a mentor of mine. He's been a voice of reason. He's one of the best critical thinkers I've seen in the industry. He's just very quick with numbers. He's a great delegator; he's uh, he's just been a mentor to me since I've been here. And I don't think that will change much. I think, he's usually pretty hands off. He, he'll let us run the business, but he'll be there to help us when he sees something or his experience tells him that we ought to be looking at something else and that's going to be the invaluable part too. I think Mike will find that invaluable, I already know because I've dealt with it.

Mike Jennings:

We're pleased to have him around. He's got 35 years experience with this company, has seen it through a lot and has really grown it well during his stewardship. Uh, so as Chairman of our Board, he'll be a great benefit to both Dave and me. In addition, and importantly, Matt's gonna run the MLP. And that's one of the most successful, what I'll call captive MLPs, in our industry.

Mike Jennings:

My personal style is probably similar in my private life as in my executive life and that is uh a lot of interpersonal communication. Um, I have great passion for what I'm doing and I care a lot about the people around me. Uh, I communicate openly, honestly and frequently. Um, and that's probably some of the good interaction that Dave and I have had together from our first meetings in early January. There wasn't a lot of dancing around on the head of a pin. We talked to each other uh about the issues of the deal and the issues of our business and I think developed a meeting of the minds pretty early on and we can work together complementary.

Dave Lamp:

Yeah, I think that's right, I don't think we've had a fight yet. I'm sure it will come.

Mike Jennings:

We'll get there

Dave Lamp:

We'll get there eventually. But uh, you I think um, like I mentioned earlier, Mike's very level headed and very no nonsense business life. I'm pretty much the same. I don't wear things on the cuff very well, I just throw them on the table, as politically unpopular as they may be. Let's just deal with it. And uh, you know, I don't, even though politics is always a part of every business um, you know my sense of him is, is uh you know let's use the positive politics but let's get rid of the negative politics and let's not play games with each other. That's very important to me because I'm just going to go crazy if I feel like I've got to say something that isn't, that I don't believe. I just don't do it generally.

Mike Jennings:

And what you'll find from us and from the team around us um is people putting issues forward more quickly so that we can resolve them as a group and that's really an expectation as much as it is a style.

Dave Lamp:

You know I think the other point I'd make is uh, you know my style is largely, I like a good debate almost to the point that it's ridiculous. I'll take the other side that I even believe just so we can get the discussion going. And I think it makes us a better company, it gets us solutions and that's what I expect our people to do and I'm sure that, I think I sense that of Mike a little bit. Let's have that hard hitting conversation. Let's take each other's view and tear them apart and see which, what they're really made of and make the best of it.

Mike Jennings:

Search for the best

Dave Lamp:

He's got a passion for this business just as I do. I think he's uh very articulate. Uh, he's very knowledgeable of the business drivers. He comes from a financial background, so he knows that side of the business extremely well, which I don't. So, I think there's really good complement there. Uh, the uh, there is no doubt to me that he's earned his stripes as a manager and has a mature level headed approach. Appears to be very good at thinking through issues, um and critical thinking as I would call it.

Mike Jennings:

Dave is going to be the Chief Operating Officer of the combined company. It's a job that spans the operations in terms of the refining operations as well as the commercial elements of the business, uh the safety and the planning. Dave has extensive back ground in refining. He's really one of the best petroleum refiners in the country. Has a great reputation. He's done super things at Holly Corporation in the 7-10 years, I guess, that he's been here and he's a guy that I have great faith in.

Mike Jennings:

These are 2 companies that have very proud and successful histories, ok? And you know people ask me, why is this necessary? What are you doing? and the thing is what we're doing here is really putting them together with the opportunity to do something a lot better than either of us could have achieved individually. And so uh, there's some transition, there's going to be some anxiety, there's going to be a lot of hard work, but it also gives us the opportunity to go to a level that neither of us frankly could have achieved by ourselves.
