Electronic Message from Prof. Dr Aldo Belloni to Linde Employees

Subject: Linde delivers solid performance despite economic headwind

Dear colleagues,

Today we are presenting our results for 2016, a year which saw much political uncertainty, strong economic headwinds and continued low oil prices. It was against this backdrop that we implemented difficult cost cutting initiatives and began examining strategic opportunities to make Linde more profitable in the long term. We have faced – and continue to face – great challenges, and I would like to start this message with my heartfelt thanks to all of you. It was certainly not an easy year and you have demonstrated great commitment in this difficult environment.

At today's press conference, we will announce that our perseverance and tough decisions are beginning to deliver results. Group revenue from continuing operations fell by 2.3 percent to almost EUR 17 billion, while Group operating profit from continuing operations increased slightly by 0.3 percent to around EUR 4.1 billion. However, after adjusting for exchange rate effects, both Group revenue and operating profit increased by 0.2 percent and 2.7 percent, respectively. Please also note that due to the planned sale of our our logistics services provider Gist in 2017, revenue and operating profit contribution from this Division are no longer included in our Group figures.

In our Gases Division, revenue in 2016 fell by 1.8 percent compared with the prior year to around EUR 14.9 billion. After adjusting for exchange rate effects and changes in the price of natural gas, revenue increased by 1.4 percent – with Q4 demonstrating encouraging growth of 2.9 percent. Operating profit in our Gases business rose by 1.4 percent to just over EUR 4.2 billion and we were able to improve operating margin across all segments. While we saw positive trends in some regional markets – such as a solid growth in Asia or in Healthcare product areas in EMEA – the business environment in many regions remains challenging.

In our Engineering Division we continued to see tepid demand in the plant construction sector in 2016. Revenue here fell year-on-year by 9.4 percent to almost EUR 2.4 billion. Operating profit also fell to EUR 196 million. Nevertheless, we were able to maintain the operating margin at 8.3 percent, the same figure as in 2015 and in line with the target of around 8 percent we had set ourselves for the 2016 financial year.

The figures we are reporting today would not be possible without the difficult decisions taken in recent years. The improvement measures implemented as part of the Focus programme had a positive effect on our performance. The second part of our HPO programme has also been successfully completed, delivering EUR 820 million in gross cost savings during the last four years. And our global efficiency programme LIFT is now well underway: the first LIFT restructuring measures have been successfully implemented in the UK and Scandinavia, subsequently making a positive contribution to the margin development in the second half of 2016.

Looking ahead, it is evident that the development of the global economy still faces numerous uncertainties and risks in the coming years, hampering the growth of global industrial production. At the same time, aggressive competition from low-cost rivals will remain. This is why we need to fully exploit all our opportunities to achieve and secure long-term sustainability for our business. We will continue driving our efficiency programmes forward. On the other hand we must also embrace opportunities for growth. This includes developing new products and services to improve our value proposition to our customers as well as adopting digitalisation so that we can turn the challenges caused by technological disruptions into our competitive advantages. Yet another way to grow is by expanding the markets, customer bases and geographies we serve. Our merger negotiations with Praxair are a major aspect of this growth strategy. With all working parties on schedule, we are aiming to conclude the negotiations by the end of April or beginning of May.

Moving forward with these initiatives will bring further changes in 2017, the effects of which are likely to be demanding on all of us. It is my goal to ensure the best success for Linde in the long-term. I fully understand the uncertainty many of you are facing and aim to communicate any relevant developments as soon as possible. Please continue to give your best and once again, thank you for your hard work and dedication.

Best regards,

Aldo Belloni
