Item 7.01 Regulation FD Disclosure.

The business of Qing-Hai Technology was carved out of the business of Qing Hai Mining on December 20, 2018. Qing Hai Mining was founded on March 6th, 2001 and engaged in mining of boron and the manufacture and wholesale of boric acid and related compounds for industrial and consumer usage. Qing Hai Mining owns the right to mine approximately 35.5 square kilometers in an area rich in boron, lithium, magnesium and bromine. Qing Hai Mining engages in mining minerals by digging trenches in the earth but has developed new mining techniques that will syphon water rich in minerals from lakes and water pools on its property which it will provide to Qing Hai Technology to manufacture and sell boric acid and lithium carbonate for industrial and consumer use.

Qing Hai Technology obtains its raw material minerals exclusively from Qing Hai Mining and is currently processes boric acid by crushing and processing ore. Qing Hai Technology has developed, tested and installed its next generation manufacturing process which processes boric acid and lithium carbonate from mineral water that is piped into the facility from a nearby salt lake and pools owned by Qing Hai Mining. Management estimates that its existing facility will produce approximately 15,000 tons of boric acid in 2019 with production capacity from the new processing facilities producing approximately 1,000 tons of lithium carbonate and 2,000 tons of boric acid in 2019. Qing Hai Mining plans to move into new facilities in the fourth quarter of 2019 with a new production line which management estimates will produce 10,000 tons of lithium carbonate and 20,000 tons of boric acid annually. Qing Hai Technology plans to add two more production lines in new facilities in 2020 and 2021 which management estimates will increase the production of lithium carbonate to 30,000 tons and boric acid to 60,000 tons annually. The new facilities will be housed in the Boric Chemical Industrial Zone located in Da-Chai-Dan Town of the Qing Hai Province where it expects to receive a preferential tax rate of 15%. Qing Hai Technology expects to close its existing facilities in 2020.

Qing Hai Technology employs approximately 280 full time employees with approximately 21 employees engaged in research and development. Employees may stay in facilities that are provided by the company and government programs and provides employees with lunch and dinner facilities.

The demand for boric acid and lithium carbonate is high in China and management of Qing Hai Technology expects to sell all of the compounds it produces at China domestic wholesale prices

Smartheat plans to file audited consolidated financial statements on or before March 18, 2018.
