ITEM 1.01. ENTRY INTO A MATERIAL DEFINITIVE AGREEMENT

On June 30, 2006, Brooks Automation, Inc., or Brooks, and Yaskawa Electric Corporation, or Yaskawa, completed their previously announced formation of a joint venture in Japan known as Yaskawa Brooks Automation, Inc. or YBA. YBA will be the exclusive channel for sales, marketing and support in Japan of Yaskawa's semiconductor robotics products and Brooks' automation hardware products.

Brooks also completed its acquisition of Synetics Solutions Inc. from Yaskawa through a merger that became effective as of July 1, 2006. Synetics Solutions Inc. provides customized manufactured solutions for the North American semiconductor equipment industry. Pursuant to the merger agreement, Synetics became a wholly owned subsidiary of Brooks. The final purchase price, including the repayment of outstanding debt, for Synetics consisted of $45.1 million in cash plus $3.4 million in adjustments.

In connection with the establishment of the joint venture on June 30, 2006:

Brooks entered into a shareholders' agreement with Yaskawa and YBA that provides for Brooks and Yaskawa to jointly control YBA and for each to own 50% of the equity interests of YBA. The initial term of the shareholders' agreement is for ten years, and the term can be extended by mutual agreement for additional five-year terms. The shareholders' agreement provides YBA with the exclusive right, beginning on the date on which YBA commences full operations (expected to occur in September 2006), to market and sell Yaskawa's semiconductor robotics products and Brooks' automation hardware products to semiconductor customers headquartered in Japan, subject to limited exceptions. YBA will not, however, sell, market or supply (1) Yaskawa's robots used for flat panel display manufacturing and motion control products, (2) Brooks' software products or (3) the products of Helix Technology, which Brooks recently acquired. Pursuant to the shareholders' agreement, Yaskawa and Brooks each are required to provide YBA with initial capital of approximately $2.0 million.

Brooks entered into a supply agreement with YBA pursuant to which Brooks will supply its products to YBA during the term of the shareholders' agreement.

In connection with the completion of the purchase of Synetics, Brooks entered into a supply agreement with Yaskawa, pursuant to which Brooks will be the exclusive channel for sales, marketing and support to semiconductor customers headquartered in North America of Yaskawa's semiconductor robotics products, subject to limited exceptions. Yaskawa's robots used for flat panel display manufacturing and motion control products are excluded from this supply agreement. The initial term of this supply agreement is for ten years, and can be extended by mutual agreement for additional five-year terms.

ITEM 8.01. OTHER EVENTS

On June 30, 2006, Brooks issued a press release announcing that it and Yaskawa had completed their previously announced formation of a joint venture in Japan and Brooks' previously announced acquisition of Synetics Solutions Inc. from Yaskawa.
